

Dark matter halo around a neutron star

V.L. Kauts

Astro Space Center of the Lebedev Physical Institute (ASC FIAN) (Moscow, Russia)

Forming the halo of dark matter around a neutron star is connected with a collisionless focusing of particles in an arbitrary gravitational field. The expected slope of halo density profile is -0.5 and the amplification factor near the surface of the neutron star is ~ 600 .